A ROUND OF TALK.

October

There's a heartache in the song
That the robin trills today,
And the blue bird lingers long
Where the dells are turning gray,
And there's sorrow in his lay,
And his lyric holds a tear
For the silver of the year
That bedecks the autumn way.

There's the requiem of fall
In the rhythm of the brook,
And each leaf becomes a thrall
Given in some crimson nook,
There's a grumness in the look
Of the opalescent sky—
Scarlet pages flutter by
Out of autumn's tragic book.

There's a stillness to the air
That bespeaks a time to be,
When the winter winds will fare
Through the dale and over sea,
With their song a symphony
In an eerie minor strain,
As the pallid spectre rain
Rides the pale gusts fearlessly.

—Stacy E. Baker.

THE GROWLER — An exchange indulges in the following pertiment remarks concerning the growler or the fellow who is always "knocking" on his town: Occasionly one will hear the remark, "I wish I were out of this town," and then one feels like saying, "I wish you were," for the man who stands on street corners chewing and spitting, telling obcene stories, cursing the town, finding fault with his grandmother because she was a woman, claiming the merchants are a lot of thieves, that the lawers and newspaper men would skin a man to a fitish, and a whole lot more is a nuisance and an abomination. Anyone restered with one or more such worthies would be justified in exercising cowhide authority on the bosom of their pants, No one is obliged to live where he is not suited. If one hasn't an encouring word for the business enterprise and institutions of his town he should shut up and "go way back and sit down." If things dont suit you move on to where they will. A growler and a sorebead in a town is an enterprise killer every time. It would pay a town to donate him $5 and tell him to move on.

UNSATISFACTORY—We hear of a good deal of complaint among tobacco growers about the unsatisfactory conditions existing concerning the growing of the crop and not a few have been heard to express the determination to quit the business. They have been forced to this by several reasons, the main one being the difficulty in securing efficient help. Labor has been so scarce and demands such high prices that they say that there is very little money in the crop at the present prices. It seems to us that the great trouble with tobacco growers recently is that they try to grow a bigger crop than they can cultivate properly. This year especially thousands of pounds of tobacco was allowed to perish in the fields on account of the lack of help to cut it and get it in the barn. The wet season interfered seriously with the working of the growing crop and the worms damaged a big lot. Then the tobacco was of such heavy and rank growth that when gathering time came nearly every farmer discovered that he had only about half enough barn room to properly take care of his crop and as a consequence a great quantity was destroyed by house burn. The farmer would doubtless find it more profitable to plant a smaller acreage and cultivate it well than to attempt more than he can properly attend to. He will realize higher prices and get more money in the end.

AFTER THEM.— They say that the grand jury has been getting after the saloon keepers with a sharp stick for alleged violations of the law in regard to the sale of whiskey. The recent local option agitation in the county which has directed attention particularly to the operations of the saloon men is thought to be responsible for the severity of the prosecutions and effences which have heretofore gone unnoticed are now being investigated. The grand jury has devoted particular attention to whiskey selling at the fair grounds, There is no license issued for the sale of whiskey on the fair grounds only beer being permitted to be sold legally. It is claimed however that whiskey has been sold along with the beer. The matter has been overlooked by the authorities all along until this year when they decided to prosecute and the result is a large batch of indictments. A large number of indictments were also returned for selling liquor to minor.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?—Among the campaign documents which have been floating about during the present campaign for nominations before the Democratic State primary the circular which we publish below is the most puzzling. One came in a plain envelope post marked Indianopolis and addressed to the NEWS-LEADER. We understand there were several others received here and the recipients thereof are busy guessing as to what it means. Some seem to think it a scheme on the part of Beckham and Hager followers to create prejudice others that it came from the other side. In any case it is a very foolish scheme We will violate the injunction contained in it to "Show this to no democrats" and publish it as follows:

"My Dear Sir—The friends of Gov. W. S. Taylor in Kentucky and Indiana, believe it will be to his interests and to the interests of Chas. Finley to have J. B. McCreary nominated for U. S. Senator, and N. B. Hays for Governor. We therefore beg of you to do all you can in the coming democratic primary for them. It will also be an easy matter to defeat them next fall, and we know if they are nominated and elected, Gov. Taylor and Mr. Finley, will be safe.

We owe, and the republicans of Kentucky owe that cursed Beckham, a debt, which we can liquidate in the primary if you boys can stand it to work in a democratic election.

We got your name from your party leaders who assured us you were made of good stuff. Show this to no democrats and work. Yours,

W. S. TAYLOR'S FRIENDS.

STOCK LAW—The voters in three precincts of the county are to vote on the question at the election next Tuesday as to whether or not stock shall be permitted to run at large. There have been several attempts at passing a stock law in certain districts in the past but the proposition failed to carry for one reason or another. Sometimes the question is not understood and the voter becomes confused and fails to vote as he intends. The question as it will appear on the ballot is as follows: "Are you in favor of a law prohibiting the running at large of cattle in ——— district No. 7, Washington county." A square opposite the word "Yes" is for those in favor of such a law to vote in while those opposed must vote no. The following precincts will vote on the question. Pottsville, Springfield No. 9 and Springfield No. 10.

Doctors Said He Would Not Live

Peter Fry, Woodruff, Pr., writes: "After doctoring for two years with the best physicians in Waynesburg, and still getting worse, the doctors advised me if I had any business to attend to I had better attend to it at once, as I could not possibly live another month as there was no cure for me. Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended to me by a friend and I immediately sent my son to the store for it, and after taking three bottles I began to get better and contigue to improve until I was entirely well."

Rev. C. H. Prather, pastor of Methodist church, announces a revival meeting to begin on the first Sunday in Novemb r. Rev. Dr. J. H Early, of Elizabethtown, will assist in the meeting. Dr Early is a splendid worker in revival services, and will do much good. The church will install a new furnace in the meantime, and will also supply the church with the new Methodist Hymn Book. The other ministers of the town are cordially invited to attend and bring their congregations. The service will be at 2:30 in the afternoon and at 7:30 in the evening. Rev. G. W. Lyon will have charge of the music.

Tuesday at noon the residence of Mrs. Fannie Hays and Mrs. B. S. Bradshaw, on Water street, was discovered to be on fire, owing to some confusion as to the whereabouts of the fire after alarm was given, the fire department didn't arrive until the flames had gained considerable headway. Most of the furniture was taken from the building, but some of it was damaged to a great extent The fire and water almost totally destroyed the house. Mrs. Hays had $900 insurance on her part of the house and $300 on the furniture, while Mrs Bradshaw had $700 on her half of the dwelling. Mrs. Sarah Hayden and family occupied the Bradshaw side, and it is said that the fire originated from a defective flue from this section.

A Young Mother at 70

"My mother has suddenly been made young at 70. Twenty years of intense suffering had entirely disabled her, until six months ago, when she began taking Electric Bitters, which have completely cured and restored the strength and activity she had in the prime of life," writes Mrs. W. Without Funds.

Paducah, Ky.—Apathy among the voters in McCracken county, with both candidate for Senator in the State Democratic primary have tried to counteract, has caused a serious condition of affairs, which may result in this county not participating in the primary at all.

Only $150 of the $600 asked for the State Committee has been received, and the fund has been augmented by local contributions. The County Committee, of which the Hon. W. A. Berry is chairman, is almost hopeless, and tomorrow the situation will be publicly proclaimed. The situation in McCracken county is not calculated to stimulate much interest. There is no county ticket. Ollie James has no opposition for Congress, and aside from the State primary, the only interest in this city, in the election of the boards of the General Council, the School Board and the City Judge.

The present boards are all Republican

In the eighteen city precincts entirely new election paraphernalia must be secured for the primary.

In the county, of course, there being no election at all, nobody feels it incumpent on him to put up for the expenses. Little hope is entertained of securing volunteer officers for the primary, the committee having as usual, selected for the officers men who need the $2.

For the Children

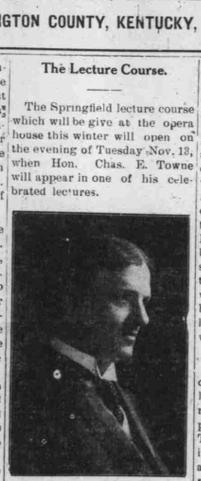

To succeed these days you must have plenty of grit, courage, strength. How is it with the children? Are they thin, pale, delicate? Do not forget Ayer's Sarsaparilla. You know it makes the blood pure and rich, and builds up the general health in every way.

The children cannot possibly have good health unless the bowels are in proper condition. Correct any constipation by giving small laxative doses of Ayer's Pills. All vegetable, sugar coated.

The Lecture Course.

The Springfield lecture course which will be give at the opera house this winter will open on the evening of Tuesday, Nov. 13, when Hon. Chas. E. Towne will appear in one of his celebrated lectures.

EARNEST WRAY ONEAL.

Earnest Wray Oneal, who will fill one of the dates in the lecture course later on, is very highly speken of by the press wherever he has appeared. The Aurora (Ill) Express in speaking of him says: "In Mr. Oneal, Aurora has one of the most brilliant speakers that ever graced a lecture platform. His discourse for an hour was the precipitation from years of reading and thought, remarkable for its intensity. When fairly launched upon his favorite theme he is a thunderstorm with a torch light procession and a pyrotechnic display thrown in. Never did a man come into Aurora and in so short a time take such a high position in the affection of the people."

The sale of seats will begin at the Red Cross Drug Store on Nov. 1st at 9 A. M.

Wants a Divorce.

In the Lexington Circuit Court last week, Mrs. Jean Warren Hutchinson filed suit for divorce from her husband, John Hutchinson, a leading merchant of that city. She alleges cruelty and asks for alimony, possession of her wedding presents and a return to her maiden name.

Mrs. Hutchinson was formerly Miss Jean Warren, of Danville, and is quite well known in this city, where she has frequently visited. Her marriage to Mr. Hutchinson last winter was one of the biggest society events that ever took place in Danville In June last when her seperation became known it caused a sensation It was said at the time that Hutchinson abused his wife and later drove her from her home and she has since been living with her parents in Danville,—Harrodsburg Democrat.

Given Prison Term.

Lexington, Ky.,—After thirteen and one-half hours' deliberation the jury which tried Daniel M. Adams, a former attendant at the Eastern Kentucky Asylum, charged with the murder of Fred Ketterer, formerly a patient there, returned a verdict this afternoon finding Adams guilty of assault and battery and fixing his punishment at one year's confinement in the county jail.

The verdict is criticised adversely by many people, Fred Pharis, charged with the same murder, was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary last week. W. W. Claggett, charged with the same crime, will be tried tomorrow.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustrchian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

Had a Fortune.

Louisville—Louis Militz, aged 80 years, was found dead in his room at 1925 Congress street. He lived alone in a squalid room which he had occupied for the past year. He was a shoemaker and worked generally from dawn until late at night. His neighbors thought him a poor man, but when his clothing was searched in the linings were found certificates of deposit in the Louisville Trust Company for about $15 000 in stocks and bonds of various kinds, most of them being gilt edge. Secreted about the house was found $820 in bills and coin. It was also shown from memorandum on hispersin that Militz owned two good houses at Twenty-fifth and Market street.

Don't Be Imposed Upon

Foley & Co. Chicago, originated Honey and Tar as a throat and lung remedy, and on account of the great merit and popularity of Foley's Honey and Tar, many imitations are offered for the genuine. Ask for Foley's Honey and Tar and refuse any substitute offered, as no other preparation will give the same satisfaction. It is mildly laxative. It contains no opiates and is safest for children and delicate persons. Sold by Red Cross Drug Store.

Stray Bullet.

A special from Sturgis, Ky., says: Robert Whitefield, a guard employed at the shaft by the West Kentucky Coal Company, was accidently shot and killed after midnight last night by another guard named Hall. Whitefield had just come off watch and was standing before the fire at his quarters with other guards, who were preparing for rest, when a long range ball flew through the building striking him in the forehead, and piercing the chimney behind him. He lived but a short while afterward, and the body was shipped to his home at White Plains, Ceristian county, today.

The fatal shot was accidently discharged from dall's gun, a long distanc from the barracks as he was emptying the cartridges from his rifle and prepairing to go on duty.

Aged Minister Dies.

Campbellsville, Ky., Oct. 27—The Rev. J. L. Edrington, an aged and greatly beloved Methodist minister on the Campbellsville circuit, died at his home, six miles southwest of this place this morning of paralysis and complications. He is survived by a widow nee Miss Ferguson, of Louisville, Ky., and a daughter. He had sobriquet of "Taylor County's Grand Old Man."

The deceased was well known in Springfield, having had charge of the church here at one time.

Danger From The Plague

There's grave danger from the plague of Coughs and Colds that are so prevalent, unless you take Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, Mrs. Geo Walls, of Forest City, Me., writes: "It's a Godsend to people living in climates where coughs and colds prevail. I find it quickly ends them: It prevents pneumonia, cures la grippe, gives wonderful relief in Asthma and Hay Fever and makes weak lungs strong enough to ward off consumption, coughs and colds. 50c and $1. Guarantied by C J Haydon's drug store. Trial bottle free.

What Makes a Paper.

An exchange tells a plain truth in this fashion: "The news paper is for everybody, and hence must publish something for everybody. If you see something that is of little interest to you, remember that there are others and that the entire paper is not printed especially for you. The very thing that is dull and uninteresting to you may be the best thing in the paper for some other reader, and other readers have just as good right to be pleased as you have. There are whole pages in the daily papers that are of no interest to us, but they are to others. A paper which contains nothing but such mater as would interest any one or another of us, would have a limited number of readers. There are many people of many minds, and the paper should have something for them all."

Keep the bowels open when you have a cold and use a good remedy to allay the inflammation of the mucous membranes. The best is Kenedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. It contains no opiates, moves the bowels, gets out the cold. It is reliable and pleasant to take. Sold by the Red Cross Drug Store.

Tribute To McChord.

The following tribute to Hon. C. C. McChord we take from the Cincinnati Post.

A number of years ago C. C. McChord was a hard working lawyer down in the town of Springfield, Ky. He gradually got into politics, as most lawyers do, and one day captured the Democratic nomination for Railroad Commissioner in the Louisville district and was elected. Since then he has held the office and has conducted himself well.

It was he who was largely instrumental in revising the freight tariff rates in this State so favorably to the shippers that the railroads are preparing bitterly to fight the new tariff and, incidentally, to fight McChord.

They are making desparate efforts to defeat him for the Democratic nomination, which is one of the best evidences that while in office he served the PEOPLE AT LARGE and NOT the railroads in PARTICULAR. He has been one of the few Railroad Commissioners in this or any other State of whom this could be claimed.

Now, this seems to be a very strong statement. It smacks so strongly of partisan flavor and personal bias that it will be necessary to give the strongest basis for this claim, and here it is:

Recently, when the State was visited by a cold snap, the coal dealers in Louisville and elsewhere suddenly made a very considerable and seemingly unfounded-for increase in the price of coal. Much complaint was made, and some of the dealers attempted to throw the blame upon the railroads.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, more alert under Roosevelt than under any other President, immediately took cognizance of the situation and determined to probe into it, to find out whether the railroads controlled the Kentucky and Tennessee coal fields, or, if not, whether they controlled the carriage of coal for the purpose of increasing prices all around.

To take charge of this work, to conduct the case, to make out a list of witnesses and to cross-examine them under oath, it was necessary for the Interstate Commerce Commission to pick out one thoroughly familiar with the railroad situation in the State and at the same time one who, in the opinion of a non-partisan body, was honest and faithful. The man chosen was C. C. McChord.

That is why the presumption is very strong that he is an honest official. That is why every good citizen ought to hope the railroads will not be able to defeat him. The best evidence of his usefulness is in the railroad opposition and the Interstate Commerce Commission's choosing him.

Mr. J. F. Read recently purchased a farm house of Frank Janes at $117

Mrs Chas. Lewis met with a painful and exciting, yet no a serious accident, one day recently, when she attempted to drive a gentle horse from the yard, and as it didn't just suit the animal it suddenly became possessed with seven devils, and kicked her in the face inflicting a severe cut, however she is doing nicely at present, and no serious results are feared.

The Editor drove a nail home when he said; "few democrats know the respective candidates." and it also reminds me of our school election, only one man went to vote and of course elected himself That doesn't show much interest indeed, and a democratic district too.

Beckham seems to be gaining ground slowly but surely, as time goes on. Possibly the Democrats will not forsake the "Boy Gov.," and give him the victory in the Senatoral race.

Among those who were entertained to dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Janes at the home of their father, N. W. Janes, of Springfield, on last Saturday were; Mesdames. T. B Baker, of Hillsboro, J. L. Moran and children E. C. Janes and daughter, Ben Janes and children, Mr. and Mrs J. L. Janes, of Valley Hill, and Misses Susie and Bertha Edgerton, of Willisburg. All report a most enjoyable day long to be remembered by everyone. Together with the writer the relatives and friends wish the honored guests many such happy days well spent during many prosperous years to come. Uno.

Surprised Their Friends.

(Valley Hill Cor.)

On last Wednesday Mr. Frank Janes, a well known young farmer, of near town, and Miss Mildred Grigsby, one of Mt. Zion's popular young society girls, surprised their many friends by driving to Willisburg, where the services of Rev. Sims were secured and soon they were pronounced husband and wife. Both the bride and groom are deserving young people and their many friends wish them happiness and prosperity in their matrimonial venture. May peace, happiness and many joys be their lot, is the prayer of Uno.

OUR POISONOUS SNAKES.

The Symptoms That Come From the Venom of Their Bites.

Notwithstanding the fact that there are many poisonous snakes in this country, cases of snake bite are not common. They occur frequently enough, however, to make it worth every farmer's or country roamer's while to familiarize himself with the poisonous effects upon the body of snake venom and the best means to overcome those effects.

The most common of the poisonous snakes in this country are the coral snakes, the copperhead, the water moccasin and many varieties of rattlesnakes. The symptoms of poisoning vary somewhat according to the variety of snake and also to the state of the weather and the condition which the snake is in at the time. The poisonous effects are more marked the hotter the weather at the time, and the bite of a well fed snake is more harmful than that of one which is fasting.

The symptoms of snake bite are both local and general. In the case of rattlesnake bite the local symptoms consist in severe pain and very great discoloration about the wound, due to the suffusion of blood under the skin. The part becomes greatly swollen and may even mortify.

The general symptoms come on quite rapidly. Sometimes within ten or twenty minutes of the bite there is a rapid and weak pulse, the victim is nauseated, often vomits, staggers as he walks and suffers from flushed and increasing prostration. Death may occur directly from the action of the venom or it may follow later and be due to prostration resulting from the gangrene occurring at the site of the bite.

Recovery, which occurs in about three-quarters of the cases of rattlesnake poisoning, even when untreated, is very prompt, the symptoms of depression disappearing as rapidly as they came on.

When one has been bitten by a poisonous snake, the first thing to do is to prevent the entrance of the poison into the general circulation, which is to be done by tying a cord or a strip of cloth as tightly as possible about the limb above the bite. Then the part bitten should be cut freely with a sharp knife, with two or three cross cuts, so that it will bleed freely.

Sucking the wound is good for the victim, but dangerous for the person who does it, for the poison may be absorbed through any small abrasion near the mouth.

The elimination of the poison that may have been absorbed should be promoted by the use of purgatives and wrapping the victim in blankets, with hot bottles to promote perspiration. Alcohol is of service in moderate quantities, but it should never be taken in amount sufficient to produce intoxication.—Youth's Companion.

Music Versus "Programme" Music.

Were triviality the only sin of programme music, we might leave it without further ado, to the gradual oblivion which overtakes the jejune in art, but unfortunately programme music not merely bores the music lover; it does him a positive injury, which criticism ought, so far as it can, to mitigate. By its false emphasis it distracts attention from what music can do supremely to what it can only botch and bungle, bring true masterpieces into discredit with hearers not sensitive or disciplined enough to appreciate them and plunges the simple into a hopeless aesthetic quagmire. Pitiable is the frequency of such questions, on the lips of aspiring students, as, "Could I learn to listen to music, to have in mind a series of pictures or a story?" To judge by the minuteness of its detail, the art which, beyond all others, is freed by virtue of indefinable suggestion and inspires by appealing to faculties far below the level of intellectual consciousness is to be sadly duped.—Daniel Gregory Mason in Atlantic.

To Make Court Plaster.

Put some isinglass to soak in warm water for twenty-four hours, then evaporate nearly all of the water by gentle heat. Add a little spirits of wine to the remainder and when it has dissolved strain it through a piece of some linen. The strained mass should be a stiff jelly when cold. Soften the skin of a piece of clean silk to a wooden frame by means of tacks or thread, running the thread through the silk with a needle, over the frame and through the silk again, and so on until securely fastened. Melt the jelly and apply it to the silk with a clean hair-brush, spreading it thinly and evenly over the entire surface. Allow this coat to dry thoroughly, then give it a second coating in the same manner. When the whole thing has become quite dry apply three coats of balsam of Peru. This court plaster will be found very pliable and will not break

The members of the U. D C will meet at the Walton this afternoon at 2 o'clock.
Mrs, Oscar Walker, Pres.

Mr. J. C. Mann, of this county has bought of Robert Lyle, of Marion county, a farm of 600 acres near Bradfordsville on the Rolling Fork. The price paid was $19,000. Mr. Mann advertises in this issue of the News-Leader a public sale to dispose of his farm and some personal property near Booker Station preparatory to moving to his new home. Mr. Mann is a clever gentleman and a wide awake enterprising citizen and Washington county people will regret to lose him.

The Rev. T. D. Latimer, pastor of the Presbyterian church for three years past, preached his last sermon as pastor of that congregation last Sabbath. He resigned the position in September, his resignation becoming effective the first of November. Dr. Latimer's pastorate has been marked by extraordinary success, more members having been received into the church during the three years than any previous time in its history. There is not a dollar of debt outstanding against the church and Dr. Latimer's successor will find a congregation not dead or sleeping, but fully alive and awake and meeting its obligations of every nature. Dr Latimer is a man of high ideas, never shirking his duty as he sees it, and performing the labor of the Lord in a conscientious way that commends him to the people of all denominations. In the church work Dr. Latimer has been ably assisted by his wife and daughter. By their pleasant manners socially and their usefulness in the church they have won an enviable place in the hearts of the people. Miss Annie has rendered effective work as a member of the choir and her voice will be a decided loss to the church. The best wishes of the church and community will accompany the family to their new home.

Court Adjourns.

Circuit court adjourned Tuesday after a dull session. The jury panel was dismissed last week after trying and disposing of a few misdemeanor cases. The grand jury continued its labor until Tuesday and as a result returned 46 indictments for various offenses as follows: selling liquor to minors 13, selling liquor without license, 7 breach of peace 15, housebreaking 2, seduction1, selling pistol without license, petit larceny, drawing pistol on another 1, shooting on the public highway 1. Of the twenty indictments against saloon keepers, eighteen of the number are found, against one man.

Gov. Beckham Speaks.

Gov. J. C. W. Beckham spoke here yesterday in the interest of his candidacy for U. S. Senator. The courthouse was crowded to the doors, a good portion of the audience being made up of ladies. Gov Beckham held the attention of his audience from begining to end and spoke in a calm dispassionate manner in defense of his administration against the attacks of his opponents. He said that he would rather be defeated for U. S. Senator and see his administration succeeded at Frankfort by Democrats than to be elected Senator and see a Republican administration get into power. Gov. Beckham devoted a great part of his speech to Attorney General Hays and defended the administration against the charges being brought by that gentleman. Indeed his speech in that respect was largely a repetition of the address made by Judge Hager here two weeks ago. The speech was well received, but failed to arouse any enthusiasm, the audience appearing to be content to listen quietly and there was no cheering.

Keene--Ensor.

Miss Susie Keene and Mr. J. C. Ensor were married yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the parlors of St. Rose. Mr. Watt Wheatley and Mr. Wyman Keene were the attendants Miss Keene is a daughter of Mr. Frank Keene and is a popular young lady of the St, Rose neighborhood. Mr. Ensor is a well known farmer of the county. We extend congratulations.

Died in St. Louis.

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Martha A. Clark, who died in St. Louis, Mo., on the 30th day of October, 1906. Mrs. Clark was the widow of J. T. Clark and the daughter of the late David Spears of this place. She was born in Springfield in 1828 and was reared in this place where she was well known to the older citizens. Mrs. Clark was a sister of the late Mrs. Marratta and of W. B. Spears, of this place, and of J. S. Spears, of St. Louis, and Mrs. M. L. Ball, of Ft. Madison Iowa. Mrs. Clark was one of the most beautiful and popular women who ever lived in this county and the friends of her youth and those who have known her in later years will be greatly grieved to learn of her death.

Death of Dr. William RoBards

News of the death of Dr. William Otho RoBards, of Hendersonville, N. C., was received by relatives here at about eleven o'clock Monday morning. He had been afflicted with stomach and kidney trouble and had been in declining health sometime, though not considered seriously ill until two days before his death. His son, Dr. John B. RoBards, left here Saturday to visit his parents and found his father ill, upon his arrival at Hendersonville. On Monday morning he telegraphed the absent members of the family, but their father died soon after the telegrams were sent.

Dr. William Otho RoBards was born August 1, 1830, in Jessamine county and spent his childhood there. He was graduated from the Transylvania University and began the practice of medicine at Perryville, where he lived four years, removing to Marion county thence to Boyle, returning to Lebanon in 1874. In 1877 he purchased "Linwood" farm north of Danville, situated in Boyle and Mercer counties. He resided at "Linwood" until about eight years ago when his health necessitated a change of climate and he disposed of his farm and moved to Hendersonville, N. C.

On May 8, 1855, Dr. RoBards married Augusta Burton, of Perryville, who survives him, and also five children, Louisiana Hughely, Dr. John B., Dr. Richard, Robert and Eusebia.

He was a member of the Southern Methodist church, and belonged to the Masonic fraternity. Funeral services were conducted at their home in Hendersonville, N. C., Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. John B. RoBards, Robert and Dr. Richard RoBards left Monday to attend the funeral.

Killed by the Train.

The north bound passenger train from Springfield to Louisville ran over and killed Joe Paterson, a negro section hand, at Shepherdsville on last Monday morning. The accident from all accounts was due to the man's own carelessness. He was at work on the track and when he heard the train coming stepped over on the main track in front of the approaching train, probably laboring under the impression that he was getting out of the way on a side track. The train struck the unfortunate and killed him almost instantly. The body was brought to this place on the train Monday evening and buried. He was well known about Spaingfield, having lived here some time ago. He has a sister living here now.

Birthday Dinner.

Mrs. E. S. Clements invited all her children and grandchildren to be present at the celebration of her seventieth birthday on Saturday November 27, 1906.

They all arrived at the appointed hour and found the old home really "Home Sweet Home" for the yard was still covered with its lovely green carpet, the veranda draped with summer vines, the house decorated with white chrysanthemums from front hall to dining hall, and best of all the Mother who had reached her three score years and ten. Receiving each guest with her welcome smile and cordial greeting as of old. It took only a short time to be warmed and cheered by the glowing fires, and then all were grouped for a picture, made by Mr. Cox.

Soon afterward all filed into the dining room which was beautifully decorated in white chrysanthemums and pink roses and lighted by candles in ten groups of seven candles each. The dinner was served in nine courses and being prepared to please the palate of each member of the family, ranged from sweet potatoes, opossum and old fashioned pumpkin pie down to the modern escriloped oysters, turkey and cranberry sauce.

The toasts were given by J. W. S. Clements the oldest son and Walter Clements one of the grandchildren. They were both very appropriate and much enjoyed as was the whole day by everyone.

DRAINAGE OF ROADS

MOST IMPORTANT FACTOR IN CONSTRUCTING GOOD HIGHWAYS.

How to Underdrain the Roadway. Disposal of Storm Water Quite as Important as Location and Grade. Value of Water Breaks.

Drainage is the essential factor and essence of all good road building, says W. R. Gail in a paper read before the recent Missouri good roads convention. Exercising its proper functions, all roads are good roads, entailing of the surface being simply a question of how much a community can stand and without drainage would be ineffectual and worthless. A study of the topography of the region through which the road is to pass, the quantity of traffic to be served, the comfort and convenience of those who use it, should determine the best location for a road, and these require the study of one qualified and educated for the work.

A level road is most desirable and economical; hence one should seek to locate a road so as to obtain the lightest grades, as a proper attention to grades is one of the most important parts of the science of road building.

The perfectly level road is the best for transportation, but it costs less to maintain a road on a slight grade than on a level, as longitudinal ruts are liable to be formed and interfere with the drainage. Any earth road surface is greatly benefited by having longitudinal drainage and is not so likely to become soft and muddy in rainy times as a level road; hence the advisability of introducing slight grades at intervals for this purpose. The gradient of the road will be determined by the amount of traffic to be accommodated.

Disposal of storm water is quite as important as location and grade and should have the constant consideration of the locating engineer. Money expended in intelligent study of location, grade and drainage gives more return than any other expenditure, drainage being the most important factor in the construction of roads and the foundation of all road building, water being the greatest enemy of dirt roads. Prompt and thorough drainage of the water from the road can only be accomplished by one who has made a study of the subject and is master of the situation.

Underdrainage or longitudinal tiling of the road or roadway lowers the water level and maintains a dry subsoil, thickening the crust of the surface so as to permit heavier loads, and prevents settling of the roadbed; also prevents the destructive effect of the frost. Three to four inch tile is a suitable size and can be laid so as to be carried down into the side ditches at regular intervals, thus having a free outlet. A line of three or four inch drainage tile along either or both sides of the grade at sufficient depth to intercept the underflow will effectually lower the water level and drain the subgrade. If the road is located on a slope or side hill; the line of tile should be laid on the upper side of the roadway, under and across the roadway into the lower ditch.

The arrangement of side ditches or drainage should be such as will effectually carry away from the roadway or grade. Wide shallow ditches with long flaring sides toward the roadway or grade should obtain, the outside bank having slope enough to prevent caving, which will necessarily have to be changed for the different soils over which the road may pass. The slope from center or highest point in the roadway should be made with a pitch, say one inch to the foot for six feet each way from the center; then change to one and one-half inch to the foot and carry this gradient to the outside of either ditch, a distance of another six feet. This will leave enough berm to support the traveled roadway.

Side ditches should have a uniform grade and free outlet into some waterway, so as to drain the road quickly. Under no conditions should water be allowed to stand in the side ditches, as it filters through and into the subsoil of the grade. Water should not be carried long distances in the side ditches nor concentrated to avoid a culvert. Natural drainage conditions should be followed as nearly as possible, and wherever the flow of water in a drive or waterway is obstructed by interposing a dam in the shape of a road grade the natural conditions should be restored by supplying an outlet in the shape of an adequate culvert across or through the road grade to the lower ditch.

Drainage of the surface of a road is largely determined by its maintenance. If the depressions and ruts are filled by some device or machine so as to leave a smooth, even surface, which is easily and quickly accomplished, the roadbed will remain dry and solid. On long, steep grades "thank-you-marms" or water breaks should be constructed at frequent intervals to force the storm water into the side ditches. Construct these in a broad angle, extending from an apex in the center of the road, down and out to either ditch. The steeper the grade the sharper the angle should be. They should also be made at the top or summit of every hill to intercept storm water and divert it to the side ditches.

In conclusion, let me recommend the employment of a competent engineer to plan all drainage and make profiles and contour maps. He will locate properly the line of drains and roads to be constructed. His contour map should show the acreage of drainage areas that shed water to each culvert, and his profiles should show grades, cuts and fills and estimate quantity of yardage of each.

Ethics of the Laboratory.

A knowledge of chemistry is not the only lesson to be learned in the laboratory. A layer of to other part of the high school or college that develops to a greater degree certain valuable qualities and habits. Cleanliness, accuracy, self reliance and consideration for the rights of others may be called the cardinal virtues of the laboratory.

The observant student learns soon after he is initiated into the mysteries of the laboratory, or perhaps only after a few failures, that much of his work has been unsuccessful because he has not kept things clean. Everything about his desk and his locker must be spotless and always in order. This, by the way, is a fine opportunity for the boy that has never had to do anything for himself.

The student next learns that absolute accuracy is the royal road to success. His notes must be carefully taken and later must be carefully studied, with special attention to systematic arrangement. Directions must be followed exactly—at least until the student has had experience sufficient to justify his making original experiments.—School Journal.

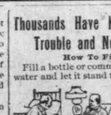

Masculine Raiment.

Until the last century, in variety and magnificence, the human male followed the rule of the lower animals that the male shall predominate in brilliance. No woman has ever ruled throughout more modishness. There has never been a feminine counterpart of Beau Brummel. All varieties of exquisite are male, whether canary, magnificent or Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect it.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.

Home of Swamp-Root.

Don't be induced to take anything else, as this is not necessary. Swamp-Root is not recommended to everybody, but only to those who think they have kidney, liver, bladder or uric acid trouble, and it is sure to do them good. In taking Swamp-Root you can also obtain a valuable book telling more about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.

CHOICE MISCELLANY

Was Paid $1,000 a Word.

At the Franklin Inn, a literary club of Philadelphia, a young poet, licking his lips, said that Conan Doyle was paid $1 a word.

"That is nothing," said a railroad advertising man. "I know of a case where a man was paid $1,000 a word. Our line used to have at its grade crossings a very long and complicated sign that began, 'Beware of the Engine and Cars,' and then this sign went on with a lot of injunctions and warnings that would have taken five minutes to read.

"In a number of accident cases the claimants for damages declared that our long signs were not clear warnings. Therefore the line decided at last to get a new grade crossing sign, and Judge Paxson was engaged to write one.

"The sign that Judge Paxson wrote cost $1,000 a word, but it was a classic. It remains a classic. It has been copied everywhere. It is as well known among us as 'Father, I cannot tell a lie,' or 'England expects every man to do his duty.'

"The sign that cost $1,000 a word, or $1,000 all told, was the famous 'Railroad Crossing—Stop, Look and Listen.'"—New York Press.

A Modern Convenience.

Almost every large hotel in New York now has a "makeup room." The women call 'em dressing rooms, because that name does not scare off rouge, grease and the like. "The absolute candor which women 'put on' while making up before each other in the hotel dressing room is astounding," said a hotel clerk. "Three out of every four women who come in after a walk or ride or before entering the cafe dab their faces plentifully with powder, touch up their lips, then ask the maid to bring a box of range kept in the dressing table with cork tipped cigarettes for those whose 'nerves' demand a soothing puff or two of tobacco after dinner." Of course the hotels guarantee all the grease and powder. The maid shows the uninitiated woman who wants a wholesome complexion how to apply the coloring matter and declares that it is harmless and not the kind which wicked cosmetic makers are accused of selling and which doctors say cause physical breakdown.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Father Won't Work In Guam.

Uncle Sam's island of Guam is the subject of a letter from Agana, the capital, to the Charlotte (N. C.) Chronicle. Guam has an area of 200 square miles, on which are 9,000 people. Statistics give eighteen schools and state that nine-tenths of the islanders can read and write. Yet the letter says that the people will not work. The shipments of merchandise from the States to Guam amounted in value to $101,900 in 1904 and only $610 in 1903.

The only farming implement used in Guam is a hoe, used like the scuffling hoe in the States. Guam is thickly wooded, well watered and fertile, producing tropical fruits abundantly. There is a good harbor. The article concludes that "if the American people wish to help Guam they can do it quickly and efficiently by teaching the people improved agriculture."

French Wealth on Down Grade.

All around nations are increasing their wealth, while we are beginning to descend the downward grade. Rival powers progress, while we remain stationary. Private initiative has shown what it can do when powerfully supported, but unfortunately the French government takes no interest in the commercial and industrial prosperity of the country.—Paris Gaulois.

Things Were Going All Right.

As I rode up to the shanty of a Nebraska pioneer and helloed to bring some one to the door the man came from around the corner of the house with a shotgun in his hands. I asked for a drink of water and got it and then asked:

"Folks gone away or sick?"

"No."

"Expect trouble, that you have that gun handy?"

"May be trouble, but I scassly think so."

"Aren't you putting in any new crops this year?"

"Not yet."

I took another look around and then started to ride away, but he halted me and said:

"Stranger, things may look a little blue to you around here, but they are going all right. The old woman has gone to town to sue a feller who sold her a single sewing machine. My son Joe has gone with her to sue a widder woman who promised to marry him and then throwed him down. My daughter Mary has gone with us and Joe is sure a feller for breach of promise, and I'm stayin' home to pop the sheriff if he comes along to foreclose a mortgage on the farm. We are all right, and old Nebraska is all right, and the only thing I'm kickin' about is that we are too goldurned happy as a family!"—Chicago Daily News.

A Well Judged Pun.

One of the judges of a city court who likes a pun and also likes to "potter around the house" was busying himself with a bottle of gold paint and a brush gilding various articles of furniture under his wife's direction.

"What about this little chair?" he asked, pausing before one of those highly ornamental but useless pieces of parlor decoration. "Do you want me to give it a rub?"

The wife hesitated a moment, because she was thinking of painting it a light green tint, as that color seemed so cool to her for summer, and she did not answer.

"Come, hurry up!" urged the judge, poising the brush in a judicial manner. "What do you say—guilty or not guilty?"—Judge's Magazine of Fun.

Servants.

"You seem to forget, sir, that an officeholder is merely the servant of the people."

"And you seem to forget, sir, that the servants generally run the whole shebang."—Philadelphia Press.

Appreciative.

"I understand your wife lectured you for an hour last night."

"Yes," answered Mr. Meekton. "She told me about a few of my faults."

"Didn't it annoy you?"

"In a way. You see, when a woman of Henrietta's gifts condescends to make a speech it does seem a shame to have only one audience."—Washington Herald.

"They say that a great deal of the flour we buy is impure."

"Not so bad. Don't let my wife hear you. She'd use the story as an excuse for the awful bread she makes."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol cures indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure does not only cure indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy cures all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.

Mr. S. S. Bell, of Ravenswood, W. Va., says—"I was troubled with sour stomach for twenty years. Kodol cured me and we are now using it in milk for baby."

THE WORLD AND A LIVING.

Do Not Be an Ingrate, an Enemy of Civilization.

A fifteen-year-old bell boy was arrested in Cleveland for stealing $8. When asked in court why he stole, he said, "Because the world owes me a living." No doubt the youth had heard this many times from older lips.

A vast number of people seem to think that God and the world are under great obligations to them and that the world owes them a living without any return service from them. Not long ago I heard a young woman say that she did not consider that she owed the world anything, that she was thrust into it without being consulted, that the proposal to go out of it was also void, with as little effort as possible, and that she did not feel under the slightest obligation to the past.

But did you never think, my little friend, what you really owe the world for the privilege of living in it? Did you ever think that all the civilizations of the globe have been working for you through all the ages up to the present moment and that you are reaping the harvest of all the hard working, sweltering, suffering, drudging sowers that have preceded you? Can you look the workers of the world in the face and tell them that you intend to have all the benefits of their labor, to enjoy all the good things of the world without doing anything to compensate for them?

Everything that has gone before you enters into your life and time. You enjoy the sum of all the past every moment of your life. Think of the untold thousands who have laid down their lives to make possible the comforts, the blessings and the immunities you now enjoy. Think of the rivers of blood that have been spilt, of the thousands who have perished or lived in the misery of prison and dungeon to purchase the liberties of speech and freedom of action which you enjoy today. How many lives have been lived in solitude and misery in order to develop sciences which are today beacon lights of the world!

If all the workers and all the wealth of the world today had been employed for thousands of years for your special benefit, to prepare for your reception upon the earth; they could not have provided a tithe of the comforts, the conveniences, the facilities, the immunities, the emancipation from drudgery, the luxuries which you found waiting for you when you were born and for which you gave not a penny or a thought, and yet you say that the world owes you this and the other and that you owe it nothing! Who are you that you claim a living from the world, when perhaps you have not earned the clothing you have on your back or the shelter which covers your head? Why should tens of thousands of people do drudgery and endure hardships and privations to produce all of the useful things, the beautiful things, the luxuries for you to enjoy without effort?

Is he not a thief, an enemy of civilization, who thrusts his arm into the great world's storehouse, pulling out all the good things he wishes and refusing to put anything back in exchange?—

Real Estate Dealer and Insurance Agent.

The attention of farmers, tobacco growers, stock raisers and investors is being directed to WASHINGTON COUNTY FARMS for several reasons:

THEIR CHEAPNESS

Washington county farms have always sold low in comparison with those of surrounding counties. This fact the public is gradually realizing and there is a steady buying demand and a consequent advance in values. Instances are by no means rare of farms in this county doubling in value during the past five years.

ACCESSIBILITY

The excellent turnpike roads throughout the county which lead to the various stations along the Louisville & Nashville railroad afford the farmers of the county easy facilities for shipping their produce and their live stock to the markets and there is hardly a point in the county that is not within easy access of a railroad station or a good store.

THEIR FERTILITY

There are few sections of the country that produces a great variety of profitable crops and more abundantly than does Washington county. It has become one of the foremost producers of Burley tobacco, it being no uncommon thing to have land that has been bought for $60 per acre turn to as to bacco which will realize for the owner $100 per acre in one season. Corn, wheat, oats and other small grains grow in abundance and it is the natural home of the blue grass, clover and other grasses which grow an I afford abundant pasturage for stock of all kinds.

SOCIETY, SCHOOLS, ETC.

In selecting a home one of the first considerations of a man of family is the question of churches, schools and congenial associations for the members of his family. Washington county is well provided with churches of all denominations, her public free schools are of the best and her people are of a high social standard.
